A new Abstract of the Disclosure

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for broadcasting media includes at least one client application (4) and a separate broadcasting engine (9). The planning is carried out in the client application in the form of drop-down lists including several media objects referring to media such as audio, video, fireworks, laser etc.. The broadcasting engine receives the lists, collects and then places them in a principal list depending on provisions given in the client application. The drop-down lists may be modified in the broadcasting engine from the client application. The broadcasting engine may open several sessions, each session being related to a given media type.
